

SPALDWICK NEIGHBOURHOOD WATCH

Working with other villages

Neighbourhood Watch Coordinators from surrounding villages met recently to form a cluster - with the aim of working together to improve communications and influence the appropriate authorities regarding concerns, for example -

- Encourage local policing team to focus on the things which are important for us
- Ensuring we are represented at North West Huntingdon Police panel meetings
- Ensuring we are represented at County NHW meetings

Speedwatch

Speeding through villages was identified as a top priority in response to concerns voiced by local residents. Speedwatch uses electronic equipment to display to drivers the speed at which they are travelling - trained volunteers record registration numbers and other details of speeding vehicles. This information is passed to the Police who arrange for letters to be sent to offending motorists.

This initiative has been running successfully in nearby villages.

If you would like more information or would like to volunteer please contact me - details below.

The current status of Speedwatch:

- Police team being trained on April 24th
- Police will train the volunteers that have already come forward from our villages

Police will bring equipment to us and stay in the area when we are ready to carry out our first checks

There is a charge of £10 per month for advertising in the Spaldwick News which helps to offset the printing costs. Please contact John Blatch, 43 High Street, Tel. 890853, Email john@blatch.com, if you would like to help yourself and the News by advertising.

Hopefully this year will be better. There are three fundraising events planned, a Garden Party, the Harvest Supper and a Quiz but we must keep our fingers crossed that nothing requiring major expenditure occurs. The roof, from which lead was stolen 2 years ago, is no longer insured until we install an intruder alert with automatic dialling to the police, which would cost £5000.

Nature Notes by Brian Davis

I've been watching a red-tailed lapidarius bumblebee this afternoon quartering my orchard in search of a vole burrow wherein to make its nest. The first hole may have been occupied as it reappeared quickly, but when it disappeared underground for five minutes I guess it may have found a suitable vacancy. And removing an old carpet from my compost heap revealed a two foot Grass snake. Highlight news, this month though, is the first Easton record of a Parakeet, courtesy of Geoff Prigmore's bird feeder. And in February a Polecat was shot near Magpie Farm. This larger relative of Stoats and Weasels was once widespread in England. Now common only in Wales and Scotland, it has been spreading eastwards recently and there are confirmed records from eastern Northants. The domestic Ferret was bred from Polecats and they still hybridise quite readily. Like Mink, another, though introduced, relative, they are terrible for chickens and nesting game but, if it were not for our penchant for rearing pheasants to shoot, Polecats might be seen as good for reducing Rabbit numbers. Talking of hybrids, now is the time to see the False Oxlip, e.g. in the corner of Easton churchyard. This cross between Primrose and Cowslip turns up quite commonly where the parents co-exist. The true Oxlip is a woodland plant common only in Essex though occurring in a few woods in southern Cambridgeshire. The Flora of Huntingdonshire describes it as "forming great sheets of yellow [in Waresley Wood] in mid-April", but in recent years it has been badly eaten back by deer and few of the plants we saw this week had flowers.

On Sunday 31st May our Rector, Jonathan Young completes 40 years in holy orders. To mark the occasion there will be a group service for all of our parishes at Ellington Church at 10.00am. Everyone will be welcome.

Church Finances The financial report presented at the PCC AGM on 22nd April showed that, for the second year, expenditure exceeded income and church funds have been depleted by £3700 in that period, with the Fabric Fund now having a balance of just £211. A few years ago the balance was £20000 but repairs to the tower and roof in 2002 took all of that sum and the income since then has done no more than pay for running repairs.

Gardening Notes by Roger Haines

From 'Stickybud' to glorious leaves in seven days

April has been a marvellous month for growing; sunny bright days and temperatures at night not giving us any frosts, have meant that blossom and leaf have galloped on. We have three horse chestnuts in our front garden and these went from bare stickybuds to full leaf canopy in a week. Our newly planted greengage and apricot produced a little blossom but the Cox's Pippin planted last year is a mass of flower.

My potatoes, planted in containers, have now been earthed up to the rim and will have to be covered at night if frost is forecast. I have planted my runner and french beans, ridge cucumbers, courgettes and squashes in pots in the greenhouse ready to plant out in mid-May. Our latest container, a large wooden trough which our neighbour thought was some kind of funeral accessory has been planted with carrots, beetroot, radish and 'cut again' salad leaves, all of which have sprouted.

I have moved my potted dahlias that were planted as tubers out of the greenhouse as they were growing too quickly, and will move them back in on cold nights. The lawn is growing at a pace and has certainly benefited from its Autumn scarify followed by Spring feed. Grass cuttings are great for speeding up the compost heap as long as you add them in layers with other garden material and vegetable waste. Hoe-ing of the flower beds is constant but we do seem to be quite weed-free (no peeping over the hedge to see how many weeds you can spot)! This month has been very dry so keep an eye on any newly planted plants as they may need some extra water.

The garden has seen great bird activity and our long-tailed tits have built a beautiful moss nest in the berberis. Only a yard from the front door, the robins are now feeding in their nest and further along, in the pyracantha hedge, wren, blackbird and thrush are in residence.

I hope to replace the last of the original rabbit fencing this month as a lone baby rabbit has breeched the defences and is causing havoc! Where's my gun?!

A Real Allotment Lottery

I regret to inform those of you who were interested in taking an allotment in the village, that, after nearly a year of trying, our final re-application for lottery funding has been turned down. The powers that be decided that we were not a good risk as we were not already up and running (which is a joke considering we had made it clear from the outset that we needed the money to get us going), that we hadn't got sufficient support from beneficiaries (we're not sure what this means) and that we hadn't put in place a system of monitoring and evaluation. We think this has something to do with minorities as we had to produce, amongst other things, an equal opportunities statement. For an Allotment Society!!!!!!!

As with so many things these days, ordinary, law-abiding folk who are trying to improve their community don't get a look in when it comes to funding. We are, of course, very disappointed but would like to thank the Parish Council for their support and the provision of the field.

KILIMANJARO 2009

David and Charlotte Irwin of Ivy Way recently climbed Kilimanjaro, here is their report.

We are back from our Kilimanjaro climb. Whilst England coped with the worst snows in years we scaled the mountain in mixed conditions varying from -10C to the high twenties on descent two weeks before the celebrities.

After 5 days of trekking through plantation, rainforest, heather moorland and alpine desert in both sun and rain, our final assault commenced in the moonlight at 11pm. We climbed the cone of the volcano without our torches under the incredible African night sky slowly zigzagging up the ash scree slope. Having had no problems for the previous days we all felt the altitude, suffering from extreme exhaustion, nausea and headaches but luckily by taking it slowly we were all able to reach the crater rim. At sunrise we had reached Stella point then staggered up to the summit at Uhuru peak, at 5895m above sea level shortly afterwards. A clear sky meant we had spectacular views all around looking towards Kenya to the north and the vast plains of Tanzania to the south. Meru, the volcano we had climbed the previous week looked tiny in the distance.

All of our party reached the summit raising over £7000 for various charities but also having a really incredible adventure. There was very little wildlife to be seen but plenty of flora and spectacular scenery. Sadly the mountain is suffering the ravages of popularity and litter now is commonplace on the track. We all felt incredibly fortunate to have been able to succeed together and are wondering what Ruth's next bright idea might involve!
